

SOLDIERS TO FIGHT
THE FIRESPresident Taft Orders Them Out.

THIRTY COMPANIES GO

About Three Thousand Troops to Combat Flames.

SITUATION IS VERY SERIOUS

Death List Heavy and More Towns in Danger.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 23.—President Taft has received alarming reports as to the situation in the forest fire districts of the West and has directed General Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the United States army, to render every assistance in his power. In addition the president sent the following telegram to Governors Brady of Idaho, Norris of Montana and Hay of Washington:

"General Wood has sent thirty companies of federal troops and I have directed him to do everything in his power to co-operate in saving life and fighting the fire. Will you telegraph me what the exact situation is? The reports which reach me are most serious and I desire exact information."

The president received the following response from Governor Brady of Idaho:

"Your telegram just received. Have been wiring all day for particulars. Understand wires down into Wallace. Press dispatches approximately correct. Business section and portion of residence section of Wallace have been saved. Fire reported to be under comparative control unless wind changes. Will give you benefit of any information I am able to get. I thank you sincerely for aid you have sent and are sending."

THE WORST IN ITS HISTORY

Forest Fire Situation in the Pacific Northwest Is Terrible.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 23.—The Pacific Northwest is facing the most terrible forest fire situation in its history. Over fifty persons are known to be dead and 100 or more are missing. The list of injured will approximate 200. Half the town of Wallace is swept clean and there is a possibility that two or three more towns in the district have suffered complete destruction. Half a dozen small towns and villages are seriously threatened, and their inhabitants are hurrying to places of safety by the thousands.

The situation is most acute in the Coeur d'Alene district of Northern Idaho. Reports from other parts of the Northwest are of a less discouraging nature.

Some of the fires have been controlled, others are less threatening in the absence of wind, while in some districts the fire fighters have diverted the course of the flames from towns that were threatened.

In Eastern Oregon, between Baker City and La Grande, are several fires which are doing serious damage to live timber.

There are several fires in the Umpqua valley in Southern Oregon, but so far they have not done any great damage. The fires in the neighborhood of Grant's Pass, Ore., which became decidedly threatening Sunday evening, are for the time being under control. In the vicinity of Medford and Ashland, Ore., the fires are less menacing, only because there is no wind. In both these places all the men obtainable have been drafted into service to backfire and trench.

That the fires in Southern Oregon, in many cases, are of incendiary origin has been a matter of general gossip in Medford for several days.

No hope of rain is yet given by the United States weather bureau, the prediction of the district forecaster for two days being fair weather throughout Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

SIX MEMBERS FOUND DEAD

Score of Others of Fire Patrol Gang
Missing.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 23.—A special from St. Joe, Ida., says: Six members of the fire patrol gang of twenty men have been found dead in Elk Prairie and Avery. The other twenty are missing.

Thirty men out of a crew of forty-seven fire fighters, in charge of Forest Ranger Lee Hollingshead, are missing and are believed to have perished Saturday night when their camp on Big creek, a tributary of the St. Joe river, sixteen miles from Avery, Ida., was swept by flames.

This word was brought to Spokane by W. D. McLellan, a newspaper photographer. McLellan was one of the relief party which made the trip to Big creek Sunday to rescue survivors. The heat was so intense that the party was unable to approach the spot where the camp had stood.

According to the seventeen survivors who reached Avery the fire came upon them while they were asleep and they were quickly surrounded. Little hope is entertained by them that their companions survived.

At least five are dead at Newport, Wash. The known dead are:

George Zeigler, rancher; Mrs. Ernest Reinhardt, George R. Campbell, Thomas Carri and a rancher named Cady.

Several persons were rendered insane.

Mrs. Reinhardt broke away from her rescuers after they had borne her from her burning home and rushed back into the flames.

Ordered to Shoot Vandals.

Soldiers of the Twenty-fifth United States infantry, colored, who are patrolling Wallace under the direction of Mayor Hansen, have been given orders to shoot vandals, whose depredations have become serious.

Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound trains through the burned district, which are carrying refugees, are being furnished with guards of colored soldiers.

Train No. 1 of the Northern Pacific, westbound, reached Spokane after an exciting run through the flames at the Idaho-Montana border. Every car was badly scorched.

Flames are threatening Newman Lake, a summer resort twenty miles east of Spokane. Ranches are being burned in that vicinity and buildings are being consumed.

Liberty Lake, another summer resort, eighteen miles from Spokane, is approached by fire from two sides. Several cottages have been burned.

The St. Joe and St. Mary valleys, in the heart of the richest timber belt in the United States, are being swept by flames and already 100 homesteaders have been burned out. Five hundred men are fighting the blaze and St. Joe river steamboats are kept with steam up ready to take the people to safety.

EIGHTY LIVES LOST
IN FOREST FIRESThat Many Persons Perished in the Coeur d'Alenes.

Wallace, Ida., Aug. 23.—The loss of life in the forest fires that swept over the Coeur d'Alenes is now reported here at eighty. Forestry officials received word that thirty-four fire fighters had burned to death on Big V creek, and thirty had met death on Superior lake. Word came that 106 men near Avery, on the St. Joe river, had been burned, but a later report said that all but four came out safely.

Six men were killed in the Placer creek fire, three miles from Wallace, three near Mullan and three at Wallace.

The whole country from here to the St. Joe river, a distance of twenty five miles, has been burned over.

The loss in Wallace is estimated at $1,000,000. One hundred buildings were destroyed. The hospitals are full of wounded, a number of them being blind.

WOULD AID THE FARMERS

Wisconsin University Plans Special Exhibit.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 23.—A special exhibit is being prepared for the state fair to show the work of the college of agriculture and experiment station of the University of Wisconsin.

This exhibit will be in the old dairy building, occupying the entire structure, and will include an illustrated display showing the work of all the departments.

Aside from an excellent collection of enlarged photographs showing the buildings and equipment of the college and station there will be many charts and maps which will present in an effective manner the results of the experimental and instructional work done by this institution. The manner in which farmers may secure aid from the college and station in improving their products through the agricultural extension service will be fully demonstrated.

HUNDRED POISONED BY FOOD

Chicken or Sherbet Held Responsible for Illness.

Drayton, N. D., Aug. 23.—One hundred residents of Drayton are recovering from the effects of ptomaine poisoning with which they became affected following their participation in an "at home" given by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Moses of this city. None of the cases proved serious, although many were extremely ill. The serving of chicken sandwiches or of raspberry sherbet is held responsible for the poisoning. Analysis of these is being made to determine the exact cause.

Domestic Difficulty.

Old Lady (turning to neighbor during last act of tragedy)—Eh, mister, but them 'Amlets' 'ad a deal o' trouble in their family!—London Punch.

"Time enough" always proves it de enough.—Franklin.

SENATOR R. F. OWEN.

His Name Enters Into the Indian Land Investigation.

OWEN HELD SOME
INDIAN CONTRACTSOklahoma Man's Name Dragged
Into Investigation.

Sulphur, Okla., Aug. 23.—The name of United States Senator Robert L. Owen entered into the Indian land investigation.

E. P. Hill, an attorney for the Choctaw Nation, testified before the special congressional committee which is investigating the Gore bribery charges that Senator Owen is the principal in a suit in which are involved contracts with the Indians calling for a 50 per cent fee.

Mr. Owen, however, testified Attorney Hill, entered into the contracts with the Indians some years before he became senator and is not now trying to secure 50 per cent, but has left it to the United States court of claims to determine how much he should be paid. It was also said that since his election as senator Mr. Owen had shown no activity in the matter except to testify in behalf of his claim.

The value of the property which, it was asserted, in Mr. Owen's suit was restored to the Indians, is fixed by the department of justice at from $12,000,000 to $14,000,000. As attorney for the Choctaws Mr. Hill said he was resisting the suit.

Mr. Owen was elected senator in 1907 and lives in Muskogee. It was said here he is now in Canada.

SEEK TO MODIFY THE LAW

Labor Unionists and Equity Society
Unite to That End.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 23.—Persons interested in the probable subjects for legislation to be considered by the next legislature have just become aware of the real significance of an agreement between the Wisconsin branch of the American Society of Equity and the Wisconsin Federation of Labor, entered into about three weeks ago, which will place before the legislators the important question of repealing or greatly modifying the "restraint of trade" section of the Wisconsin anti-trust law.

The farmers' society has 50,000 members and the labor federation 65,000 in Wisconsin, and the two societies, through joint committees, have signified their willingness to enter into a compact to confine their buying and selling to each other, so far as possible, and providing they are not stopped by the enforcement of the anti-trust law. The resolutions adopted at the last convention of the federation of labor, at its Watertown meeting recently, among other things call for the repeal of the restraint of trade feature of the law, and preparations are already begun for a fight on the floor of the legislature to carry out this plan.

Added importance is given this movement by reason of the present strength of the combined forces in the legislature, and the possible additions they may have when the votes at the general election have been counted. In the 1909 session the Equity people had virtual control of thirty-six members, and the labor movement was represented at least by five Social Democrats. On the theory that this total is exceedingly likely to be increased this fall, there is plenty of cause for unrest in many quarters opposed to this latest scheme of the combined organizations.

Will Study Air Craft.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 23.—The principles upon which flying machines are constructed and operated are to be studied at the University of Wisconsin college of engineering, which will open on Monday, Sept. 26. This course in advanced technical mechanics, announced in the new graduate school bulletin just published, will cover the principles of dynamics as applied to harmonic motions, the vibrations of machines, balancing, revolving disks and whirling shafts, together with a special study of such dynamic stability as that of flying machines.

Peace is not mere tranquillity, for tranquillity may be indifference.—Duffield.

MANAGUA TAKEN

ESTRADA NOW IS PRESIDENT

Madrid Abdicates in Favor of Jose Dolores Estrada, Who Issues a Proclamation Declaring His Brother, the Leader of the Revolutionary Army, "President of the Reunited Republic of Nicaragua."

New Orleans, Aug. 23.—Confirmation of the reported fall of Managua without resistance, following the entry of the insurgent forces, was contained in a cablegram received here by the acting consul of Madrid at New Orleans. The town was surrendered without any conflict, it was stated.

After almost a year of severe fighting the revolution, which was originally launched by several hundred Nicaraguan insurgents at Bluefields, Oct. 19, last, practically closed with the capture by the revolutionists of the capital city of Managua.

Cablegrams received in New Orleans announced that Managua had fallen. When the insurgent army arrived Dr. Madrid had already abdicated in favor of Jose Dolores Estrada, who in turn issued a proclamation declaring his brother, General Juan Estrada, "president of the reunited republic of Nicaragua." General Juan Estrada has been the nominal head of the insurgents. Madrid is said to have left Managua.

AT DOWNFALL OF MADRIZ

Officials at Washington Known to Be Pleased.

Washington, Aug. 23.—While official dispatches are lacking, scarcely any doubt remains in Washington that the Madrid forces have been crushed in Nicaragua and that General Juan Estrada, leader of the "insurgents," has succeeded Madrid as temporary acting president of the Managua government.

Only the staunchest adherents of Madrid hold to the belief that his cause is not yet lost. Dr. Barrios and Sebastian Salinas, the latter until his departure for the United States military governor of Granada, and both Madrid commissioners to Washington, refuse to believe the reports from Managua and Bluefields of the Madrid reverses.

State department officials declined to discuss the developments in Nicaragua. It is well known, however, that they are pleased at the reported downfall of the Madrid power and that they look with favor on General Juan Estrada, whose treatment of Americans and the protection afforded to American interests along the Eastern coast, where he has been recognized as the head of responsible government, has been the subject of repeated praise. The department is expected to recognize Estrada only after satisfactory assurances of an early election, which shall be fair and open to all candidates.

ENCOURAGES THE FARMERS

County Association Gives Prizes for Good Roads.

Lisbon, N. D., Aug. 23.—Because he had the best stretch of road in the country Carl Krueger of Shenford township received a prize of $100 from the Ransom County Good Roads association. Edward Seelig of Casey township won the second prize of $60 and John Creswell of Green township won the third prize of $40. The competition was open to all road overseers in the county, being inaugurated by the association for the purpose of arousing interest in the making of better roads. There were numerous entries this year and next season the same plans will be followed out and it probably will mean that even a greater number will be out for the prizes.

Farmer Killed.

Mitchell, S. D., Aug. 23.—Just as he had finished his harvesting Edward Everson, living near Corsica, was killed. He had filled his last load of grain and tossed his pitchfork on the top of the load, when the fork fell and jabbed the horses. Everson fell in front of the wagon and the wheels passed over his chest and face. He lived only one day after the accident.

Minnesota Boy Drowned.

Winona, Minn., Aug. 23.—In view of several young ladies, with whom he had gone in bathing, Eugene Chase, aged fourteen, a camper at Minneapah, the fashionable summer resort, a few miles below Winona, on the Mississippi, was drowned. He stepped off the end of the dam into deep and treacherous water and was swept to death.

Startled the Natives.

Retrato, the Spanish historian, says that Pizarro when he landed in South America owed his life and those of his companions to the fact that one of the party fell off his horse by accident. The natives had succeeded in cutting off the retreat of the Spaniards to their ships, when one of the riders was thrown. The Indians were so astonished at the dissolution of partnership that they took flight at once. They had supposed horse and man to be one animal.

HOWARD ELLIOTT.

Denies Story That He Is an Enemy of Conservation.

ELLIOTT DENIES THE STORY

Railroad Man Not an Enemy of Conservation.

St. Paul, Aug. 23.—Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific railway, in answer to a charge that he was behind a movement to thwart the aims of conservation and the St. Paul Conservation congress, emanating from Salt Lake, declares himself a friend of the conservation movement.

Mr. Elliott further insists that he did not, as has been stated, stand back of or urge the meeting of the governors of the Northwest states held at Salt Lake at the call of Governor Hay of Washington.

Shallenberger to Contest.

Omaha, Aug. 23.—The latest and almost complete returns from the primaries held in Nebraska last Tuesday scales the plurality of James Dahlman down to a bare 250 over Governor Shallenberger. He is undoubtedly nominated as the Democratic candidate, but there is to be a contest. Governor Shallenberger has employed a law firm and instructed them to bring such proceedings as they consider best.

DEMONIAC PLEASANTY.

Humorous Diversion of the Roman Emperor Commodus.

Professional barbers are said to have been introduced into Rome by Menas from Sicily, of which island he was praetor in the days of Cicero. Under the empire their shops in some instances became fashionable resorts at which every luxury of the toilet was enjoyed and the gossip and news of Rome and the empire were discussed. The means, luxury and weaknesses of personal adornment therein carried to excess are amply immortalized in the pages of Terence, Plautus, Horace, Juvenal and Martial.

Other barber shops were more retired, as we learn from the annals of the Emperor Commodus, who, having wearied at times of the wholesale tragedies of the Coliseum, wherein armies engaged in murder at his savage behest, and being desirous of a little humorous diversion, used, like the caliph of Bagdad in the "Arabian Nights," to disguise himself and sail forth, accompanied by two or more of his favorites, and having hired a barber shop suitable for his purpose, would place one of his men at the door to solicit custom.

Having secured a customer, the emperor barber would politely affix the towel and apply the lather, all the time keeping up a running fire of the latest jests and little pleasantries until the customer and himself were almost overcome with laughter. Then the keen edged razor would slip, and among regrets and proffers of assistance the senseless victim would be assisted to the rear of the shop, where between threats and bribes he was kept from making a riot until one or two more victims were added to the number and Commodus, weary of his demoniac pleasantries, was ready to return to the palace or to the arena.—Charles Winslow Hall in National Magazine.

The Mails.

When does a crime become punishable? When is it committed by mail. The mail is the most sacred thing known to the United States government except itself. Nothing but treason surpasses in egregiousness the misuse of the mails. So far as the federal authorities are concerned, one may steal, gamble and murder so long as it is not done by correspondence. Do ye whatsoever ye will one unto another, but do not write it down and stick a stamp on the upper right hand corner. For if ye do then in truth will all the lemons of justice be unloosed upon your trail.—Life.

All on One Side.

"I am told your bride is very pretty," said Miss Peppery.

"Yes, indeed," replied Mr. Con Seet.

"Several of the guests at the ceremony were pleased to call it a 'wedding of beauty and brains.'"

"Well, well! She must be a remarkable woman! That's an unusual combination in one person."

In the Stilly Night.

"What is it?" the druggist sleepily inquired from his bedroom window.

"This ish drug store, ain't it?" asked the man who had rung the night bell.

"Yes. What do you want?"

"Want to look in your city directory minute an' see where I live."—Philadelphia Ledger.

ROOSEVELT AND TAFT FRIENDS

CANNIBALISM.

It Is the Religion of the Savages Who Practice It.

In the course of his thirteen years as a missionary in the Fiji Islands the Rev. Joseph Nettleton learned a good deal about cannibalism and even saw some of his colleagues killed and eaten. "It is a common mistake to think that these men eat human beings because of hunger," he said. "Cannibalism is their religion. The ovens in the temple where they cook their human sacrifices are never used for any other purpose. I once witnessed the capture of a white victim. He was surrounded, bound hand and foot and dragged along to the temple, where he was lashed with terrible force against the altar. Then he was pushed inside the compound, while the chiefs arranged as to the division of the body and began a war dance. Their hideous war-lance—the 'derra' they call it—makes one's flesh creep. An American sea captain who once visited the islands said he was not so much afraid of being eaten as he was of this dance. It took all the courage out of him."

Mr. Nettleton had to use extreme care to avoid arousing suspicion among the savages. "My colleague, Mr. Baker, was murdered, cooked and eaten with seven others while exploring," he said. "The cannibals thought he was spying. I never carried a revolver. Why? Because the cannibals say at once, 'He doesn't carry that to kill himself; therefore he means to kill us, and they act accordingly.'"

The Rev. J. Calvert, another of Mr. Nettleton's colleagues, had a narrow escape. He was surrounded by cannibals, and it was decided that he should be killed. By a miracle his life was spared. "My friend pleaded till he was hoarse," said Mr. Nettleton, "but it was of no avail. Suddenly one of the cannibals remembered that Mr. Calvert had doctored him when he was ill. That saved my friend's life."—Chicago News.

Farmer Accidentally Killed.

Venturia, N. D., Aug. 23.—Fred Saylor, a farmer living near here, was found dead. He was hauling a couple of hogs to market. His team came running into town without a driver. His body was found lying in the road. His head was lying in a pool of blood. It is thought that he fell off the wagon and under the wheels.

IN A LETTER TO GRISCOM

He Explains That He Never Took Part in Any Committee Cabal to Defeat Colonel Roosevelt for Temporary Chairman of the Coming Republican State Convention in New York.—Communication Pleases the Former President.

New York, Aug. 23.—President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt are again fellow workers in the same political field. The fear that they might pull apart had been foreboded by a full explanation on one side and an unserved acceptance on the other.

The president makes it plain in a letter given out here by Lloyd C. Griscom, president of the New York Republican county committee, how the misunderstanding arose. He explains that he never took any part in a committee cabal to defeat Colonel Roosevelt for temporary chairman of the coming Republican state convention. On the contrary, he explicitly deplored the result of the committee meeting which chose Vice President Sherman; he rebukes the party leaders who have permitted it to go abroad uncontradicted that the president was behind their factional preference; he insists that at every opportunity he advised the fullest conference with Colonel Roosevelt and he explains that he has been pained by the "columns of unfounded assertions in the newspapers concerning my attitude in respect to the New York situation."

For his part, Colonel Roosevelt, when he read President Taft's letter as communicated to him at Oyster Bay, said:

Ought to Be Avoided.

In the course of the correspondence there comes out a telegram from the president to the vice president hitherto withheld, but of which mention had nevertheless crept into print. In substance the president informed Timothy L. Woodruff, Republican state chairman, and William L. Ward of the national Republican committee, "that the thing of all others that ought to be avoided is a controversy in the convention."

The president's letter throughout is temperate, though positive. Mr. Griscom, in his comment on it, was much more outspoken. He did not hesitate to charge that the Republican organization of the state had played politics with the president's name and had misrepresented his attitude.

Colonel Roosevelt in his statement explains what had been the course of his negotiations with the organization and how, after his successive rebuffs, he had felt that further overtures could not consistently come from him. His future attitude he does not define because he is as yet uncertain what effect on public sentiment President Taft's letter will have when it has been read and digested by the voters of the state.

INDIANS NEED THE MONEY

Some Winnebagoes on the Point of Starvation.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 23.—A. P. Jones, Black River Falls, special Indian agent, who has been appointed by the Winnebago Indians to represent them in a hearing at Washington regarding the disbursements of the tribal funds, conferred with Congressman J. J. Esch preparatory to going to Washington. Frank E. Edgerton has been appointed special examiner to investigate the heinous claims of the tribe.

The Wisconsin Winnebagoes allege that many Nebraska tribesmen were enumerated as living in Wisconsin, thus causing an unequal appropriation per capita when the division of funds is made. The Wisconsin Indians also demand the payment of a loan of more than $200,000 made the Nebraskans out of their portion of the fund, and 6 per cent interest on the amount for the several years it has been out. The situation among the Indians pending settlement is serious, some being at the point of starvation. Even now it is considered impossible that a settlement will be made before late in the year.

Fifty Cities Represented.

St. Paul, Aug. 23.—After several weeks of preparation on the part of some of the most active business men of the Twin Cities and the members of the common council arrangements for the fourteenth annual convention of the League of American Municipalities, which opened in the Auditorium here, were completed. Fifty cities are represented at the convention.

Unmoved.

"I understand your antagonist is calling you every name he can think of?"

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum cheerily. "But he hasn't much of a vocabulary."—Washington Star.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 23, 1910.

The Northern Minnesota man who aspires to a position in the legislature and who has not declared for re-apportionment might as well save himself the trouble he is inviting. It seems to be the popular thing to incorporate in the platform of every candidate and in all parts of the state. The movement started by the Northern Minnesota Development Association has become state wide.

An epidemic of typhoid fever is now prevailing at Hibbing and the board of health has taken up the matter of keeping fruits, vegetables and all food offered for sale covered so that it will be impossible for flies to spread the disease, and all butchers, grocers, fruit dealers and others have been warned that failure to take these precautions will lay them liable "to gross and filthy negligence."

Frank Day is now busy explaining that he did not mean to slap at the Swedes when he wrote his Sank Rapids friend "that there is a great deal of truth in what you say that the people are tired of this Scandinavian business." Frank claims it is a compliment to them and that he is really glad he wrote the letter and would not change a word in it. Frank Day is still boss of the democratic party.

Two runaway girls from Duluth, who had been converted to the show life while Buffalo Bill's performers were there, got as far as Brainerd and were then mighty glad to accept return tickets for passage in the "varnished cars" home. A ride in the real old Deadwood stage coach which was fastened onto a flat car of 120 mile dampened the ardor of the girls and they did not think they wanted to follow the business. The show business has some unpleasant features the more one gets acquainted with it.

The Park Rapids Enterprise says that "Park Rapids and Hubbard county are now seeing results from the Bemidji and Crookston booster conventions, and adds that Northern Minnesota has attracted the attention of those who are looking for low priced lands, and the conventions held had much to do with the movement." The benefits derived from the Northern Minnesota Development Association are beginning to be acknowledged and the movement has just started. The December meeting at Brainerd will bring some things to the surface that the general public have long waited for and the benefit will be to the whole state in the long run.

The peculiar discoloration of the atmosphere which has caused considerable apprehension in this section of the country during the past three days is caused by the fires in Montana and Idaho, according to Weather Forecaster Richardson, in the Superior Telegram. The fire situation in the west is reported by Associated Press dispatches to be serious and yesterday the flames were raging over miles of green timber land and thousands of acres of green western prairie.

About 17 years ago at the time of the Hinckley fire, when a large part of northern Minnesota was swept by forest fires, Mr. Richardson was in West Virginia and he says at that time the situation in the east was about the same as it is at the head of the lakes at the present time.

The peculiar yellowish-greenish atmosphere is caused by the reflection of the rays of the sun through the smoke. Mr. Richardson thinks that the smoke has been carried eastward through upper air currents for several days and that the lake has aided in bringing it down closer to the surface of the earth. However, but little smoke is mixed with the atmosphere directly above the ground, as there is scarcely a taint of smoke in the air.

At St. Paul, Minneapolis, Fargo, Grand Forks and other points in the northwest the atmosphere situation is the same and the alarm has been general until the cause of the phenomena was explained. Many people, remembering the Hinckley fire, were inclined to believe that the fires were much closer than Montana and Idaho.

SEARCHLIGHTS.

A Special Pattern Must Be Used on the Suez Canal.

Every war vessel carries from one to twenty searchlights, and every vessel of any description whatever passing through the Suez canal has to carry one of a special pattern.

A searchlight consists essentially of an arc lamp of special form, a parabolic mirror and a case to hold the lot, the case being mounted so as to be capable of movement in two directions—viz, vertically and horizontally. The hood, as this case is called, is made of sheet steel about 3.32 inch thick. The turnable, trunnions, etc., are cast in gun metal. The arms which support the hood are of cast steel. The lamp box is formed as part of the hood. The mirror is carried on springs in the back cover, and at the front of the hood is a "front glass" mounted in a gun metal ring, and the dispersion lens when carried is hinged on in front of this. Training is carried out by means of a worm and worm wheel or by a rack and pinion. Slewing is effected by means of a pinion which gears into a crown wheel on the underside of the turnable, or else it is done directly by hand.

The Suez canal regulations require that the projector shall be capable of giving the light required under two different conditions—in the first case a broad, flat beam of light illuminating both banks and the canal uninterruptedly, this being used when no other ship is approaching; in the other case they require a beam having the same angle of divergence and consequently the same width as the first, but divided into two portions, with a dark interval between, thus giving light at both sides, but not directly in front, and so not interfering with the navigation of the approaching vessel.—J. M. Heslop in Cassier's Magazine.

LITTLE PROFIT IN AVIATORS' FAME

Risk and Expense Cut Down Slender Prizes.

MAINTENANCE COST HEAVY.

Sixteen Mechanics Often Needed by Aeroplane Star at Big Flying Competitions—Daily Cost Figured at $500—Graham White's $10,000 Training Fee Is Record.

Those who harbor the notion that aeroplaning is a quick road to fame and fortune overlook both the risk and expense. Although large sums are being given in prizes at aviation meetings, it is doubtful if many of the successful competitors do much more than recoup the heavy expenses to which they are put.

The initial cost of an aeroplane may be anything between $1,000 and $5,000, and an unlucky accident may ruin the machine before it has risen a dozen yards above the ground; but, apart from the risks to machines and their pilots, there must be considered the expenses incurred by every competitor.

Expenses Are Heavy.

Graham White when competing often finds it necessary to have the assistance of sixteen mechanics, and their wages amount to a large sum. There is also the expense of transporting the machine to and from the ground.

The maintenance of an aeroplane is, moreover, costly, every flight reducing its value and affecting its salability.

The cost of gasoline must be included and the air man's own expenses for lodging and traveling. At a big meeting $500 is regarded as the lowest sum that will cover the expenses of a man who flies every day.

Passenger carrying has become a recognized means of increasing an aviator's income. At the Bournemouth meeting as much as $50 was paid for a short flight in an aeroplane, but the price had dropped to $25 on the closing day. The majority of the seventy passengers carried were friends of the air men and paid nothing for the privilege.

Small Profit For Aviator.

Although aeroplane manufacturers are making big profits for aviators, the risks and expenses outweigh the gains that are at present offered them. For professional fliers the outlook is not made brighter by the entry into the field of wealthy amateurs willing to buy machines and take the risks of flying in them without considering the cost.

There are, of course, a few aviators who have gained a position which enables them to demand substantial fees for exhibition flights. Graham White, for instance, was engaged at a fee of $10,000 to give flights daily at the meeting at Blackpool. This retaining fee, it is said, is the largest ever paid to any aviator.

How She Won Out.

"Oh, George," she cried in perplexed tones, "I'm afraid we must part."

"Part! Why must we part, dear?" he echoed.

"On account of father," she replied. "He fears we would be mismatched. We are so very different, he says."

"In what way are we so different?" he asked, with a show of dignity.

"Well, father says I am of such a ready and willing disposition, while you seem so—so backward, so reluctant and hesitating, so—so loath to come to the point, don't you know?"

"He does, does he?" blustered George, bracing up, and the very next afternoon she was showing her girl friends how stunning it looked on the third finger of her left hand.—Boston Herald.

MANY OPTIONS BEING TAKEN

Ore Lands Mentioned Being Held at From $100 to $150 Per Acre

THREE CONTRACTS CITED

The Options Range From Three Months to One Year Periods

The records of Register of Deeds A. G. Trommald show that option contracts are being steadily filed and that interest in the ore regions adjoining Brainerd has not abated.

On July 11 1910, Adolph J. Erick and wife gave an option to Franklin W. Merritt and others to mine on their lands situated in the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 16, township 46, range 28. This 40 acre tract was leased on a 15 month's option for $400. The parties will sell, according to the terms of their contract, if so desired by the lessees, for $6,300. This would be at a price of $150 per acre.

On July 22nd Mrs. Ella and C. T. Lindquist gave an option to James A. Stetson, covering lands in the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter, and the northwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 13, township 46, range 29 with the right to explore for iron ore. A ninety day option to purchase the land for $8,000 was given.

On August 9th Fred Johnson and wife gave an option to the Cuyuna Iron and Land Co. covering lands in the east half of the southwest quarter and the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 21, township 47, range 28 for one year. If the land is purchased within that time a price of $15,000 is to be paid. This land will thus average $125 per acre.

Sunday School Picnic

The scholars and parents together with the friends of the First Methodist Episcopal church will hold their yearly picnic by the Northern Pacific sanitarium, West Brainerd, on Saturday. It had been desired by the teachers and officers of the school that possibly Merrillfield or some other place up the M. & I. might have been secured to hold it, but transportation could not be secured. The grounds are pleasant and within easy reach of the city, and a general good time is being planned by the committee on arrangements. The picnic will commence in the morning and the dinner will be picnic-lan.

MEETING OF SCHOOL BOARD

Board Met Last Night to Consider the Bids on Ventilating Fan in Washington School

The school board met last night to consider the bids for the supply and installation of the ventilating fan in the Washington school. There were present Messrs. Erickson, Larson, Kaatz, Hohman, Wise, Molstad and Ilse. Messrs. Congdon, LaBar and Johnson were absent.

On motion the time for putting in bids was extended to August 29th. This was taken because the bids received were few in number and the extension in time would give bidders present a time to put in bids.

A petition of property owners of the north side was received. They asked that a cement walk be placed along the west side of the Whittier school on North Seventh street. It was referred to the building committee, Messrs. Wise, Ilse and Larson.

On motion the board adjourned to August 29th.

Candidate for Superintendent of Schools

I wish to announce that I am a candidate for superintendent of schools of Crow Wing county, subject to the republican nomination at the primaries Sept. 20, 1910.

TRY PORTABLE AIRSHIP SHED

German Army Orders New Adjunct For Military Aviation.

Transportable airship sheds of a new type which can be set up in less than twenty-four hours have been ordered by the German army authorities. These sheds are 330 feet long, 26 feet wide and 80 feet high and are made of Mannesmann steel tubing and waterproof canvas coverings.

The tubes are fixed at equal distances in iron sockets, and the whole erection is fastened securely to the ground by means of so called spiral screw anchors.

It is claimed for these sheds that their erection causes the least possible damage to cultivated land, and another advantage is that they possess special facilities for being secured to the earth so as to provide absolute safety in the most violent hurricane.

There are, moreover, special contrivances by way of huge movable wind screens to protect the airships from sudden gusts when entering or leaving their shelters.

WIRELESS APPARATUS IN HAT

Oregon Man Invents Device For Guides on Mount Hood.

O. P. Guldmeister, in charge of the electrical department of the Portland (Ore.) School of Trades, has invented a wireless telegraph instrument that may be carried in an ordinary derby hat.

With the Guldmeister machine it is possible to stop almost anywhere, stick a bamboo cane, which is a part of the device, into the ground and catch wireless messages.

The machine has been perfected after two years of experimenting, and Guldmeister will install the first complete outfit for practical use on Mount Hood. The sending station will be at the government camp, and three guides who have learned the wireless code will be equipped with the pocket receiver, necessary hat and cane. Thus they will be prepared to keep in touch with the government camp while they pilot parties to the summit.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

At the Grand

The Grand played to full houses at both performances last night showing that the people have not lost their interest in this popular play house.

Miss Marie Dorr, the singing and dancing comedienne of Chicago was the vaudeville attraction and her singing and earnest desire to please her audience gained frequent applause and an encore. Her first song was "You'll Come Back," the refrain of which, "You'll Hang Around That Old Veranda When You See Another Fellow Hanging Around Me," gives the key note of the song. She then gave an imitation of an old farmer singing. When Joshua finished relating his experience his wife said, "Is it possible?" In her song, "You Can't Argue Can You? No," she imitated the comedian of the LaSalle theatre of Chicago. Her last song gave the sad experience of the Italian who lost his sweetheart.

Miss Winifred Smith has returned and last night sang the illustrated song, "Every Girl I Get the Other Fellow Steals." Her audience appreciate her enunciation and phrasing. Miss Nellie Alderman plays her accompaniments in her usual sympathetic and faultless manner.

At the Unique

The Unique this week presents a well balanced and interesting program. One of the films of more than usual interest is entitled, "Racing for a Bride." In view of the many forest fires now prevalent the film, "The Forest Ranger," is of peculiar interest.

Miss Kathleen Graham sings, "Prairie Land," an illustrated song which carries one back to the wide, boundless prairies of the great west. The show is very good this week and should draw large houses.

Y. M. C. A. IMPROVEMENTS

Five Beds Have Been Installed and are Rented—Checker Tournament Held

The Y. M. C. A. has installed five beds which are rented at a charge of 25 cents a night. This is a convenience which is appreciated by many of the members who come from a long railroad run. In the basement are the baths so that one can easily clean up after a hard day's work. Secretary Ludwig reports that the installation of the beds has been a success from the start and he is endeavoring to see if he can get permission to put more in the building.

The checker tournament drew out many contestants. Henry Krause carried away first honors, J. B. Shanks was second and A. P. Riggs stood third in the contest.

The standing of all the players is as follows:

P. V. Malm won 9 out of 21 games; Severn Swanson won 6 out of 27; O. Hammerstein won 19 out of 30; Thos. McMeekin won 13 out of 24; A. P. Riggs won 20 out of 30; Gust Newgard won 7 out of 30; W. H. Everest won 15 out of 30; J. B. Shanks won 21 out of 30; T. E. Smith won 11 out of 27; A. L. Fall won 6 out of 27; Henry Krause won 24 out of 30 games.

E. L. Ludwig, the secretary, went to St. Paul and Minneapolis today to visit the Y. M. C. A. associations there.

Arrangements are being made by Assistant Secretary Warren for a pool tournament, which will take place in the near future.

WORKING IN BUSINESS DISTRICT

John H. Ley, the Directory Man, will Finish Compiin District in Two Weeks

John H. Ley, the Brainerd directory publisher, will finish his compilation of the business district in about two weeks. He will then start work in the residence district of the south side.

He urges people to ascertain the names of roomers or boarders in their houses, as this will facilitate his work. The business section shows up well and will have more names than it had in the last directory published. If the federal census is to show only about 8,500 names, he is of the opinion that at least 1,000 names have been missed.

His method of computing the population of a town is to multiply the number of names of his directory by the multiple two and one half and the census he is now taking will show whether this multiple is correct or not.

A CARD TRICK.

The Sequel to a Challenge to a Duel in a Berlin Cafe.

"Sir?"

"Well?"

"You have been staring at me?"

"Not that I am aware of."

The young gentleman, evidently a student, was about to retire with an apology when the person addressed—a banker—thought proper to add:

"You are altogether too insignificant an individual for me to stare at you."

"Sir, that is an insult! I shall challenge you. Here is my card."

After a moment's hesitation the banker also gave up his card. The cards were inscribed as follows:

"Count Botho von Feising, student of philosophy."

"Ernst Grunschuld, banker."

The scene occurred in a Berlin cafe, and the count at once took his departure. After his excitement had somewhat abated and he had had time to collect his thoughts Herr Grunschuld also left. Fearing lest his better half might suspect something from his looks, he went straight to his place of business and began to write letters to his friends containing the customary last farewell greetings in case he should fall a prey to a "vindictive and quarrelsome opponent." It was 7 p. m., and the cashier called, as usual, to present his report. Grunschuld ran his eyes listlessly over the balance sheet. Suddenly he gave a start.

"A thousand marks drawn for private use! What does this mean? Come; this is above a joke!"

"Have you forgotten, Herr Grunschuld? You were playing at the cafe, you know, and lost a thousand marks, and as you hadn't that amount on you Count von Feising was good enough to call for the money on his way. He showed me your visiting card in proof of his statement."

Grunschuld hardly knew whether he should go into a fit with vexation or whether he should shout for joy. He had been done out of a thousand marks, but at the same time it was "off" with the duel. When he afterward learned that the imaginary student was a professional swindler he was thankful to have got off so cheaply.

"And which of my girls do you most admire, might I ask?"

"The married one," was the prompt reply.—Exchange.

JUGGLED BY BRUIN

A Boy's Remarkable Adventure With a Pet Bear.

WHIRLED ABOUT LIKE A TOY.

After the Unique Performance Was Over Seventy-six Stitches in the Lad's Gasp and Rolls of Surgical Plaster on His Shine Saved His Life.

Ben was a pet black bear four years old and as good natured and friendly as if his ancestors had never had bad reputations. There is only one occasion on record, says his owner, Mr. William H. Wright, in his biography of Ben in "Black Bear," when even to appearances did Ben misbehave himself.

The circumstances being examined, however, the animal came off with his good name virtually untouched. Ben had been left in his shed as usual. Later in the day a crowd was seen about the door. I hurried home to find most of the women of the neighborhood wringing their hands and calling down all kinds of trouble on my head.

At first I could make neither head nor tail of the clamor, but finally gathered that that bloodthirsty, savage and unspeakable bear of mine had killed a boy, and upon asking to see the victim I was told that the remains had been taken to a neighbor's house and a doctor summoned.

This was pretty serious news; but, knowing that whatever had happened Ben had not taken the offensive without ample cause, I unchained him and put him in the cellar of my house, well out of harm's way, before looking further into the matter. Then I went over to the temporary morgue and found the corpse—it was one of the Urlln boys—sitting up on the kitchen floor, holding a sort of impromptu reception and, with the exception of Ben, the least excited of any one concerned.

I could not help admiring the youngster's pluck, for he was a awful sight. From his feet to his knees his legs were lacerated, and his clothing was torn to shreds, and the top of his head—redder by far than ever nature had intended—was covered with blood. As soon as I laid eyes on him I guessed what had happened.

It developed that the two Urlln boys had broken open the door of the shed and gone in to wrestle with the bear. Ben was willing, as he always was, and a lively match was soon on, whereupon, seeing that the bear did not harm the two already in the room, another of the boys joined in the scuffle. Then one of them got on the bear's back.

This was a new one on Ben, but he took kindly to the idea and was soon galloping round the little room with his rider. Then another boy climbed on, and Ben carried the two of them at the same mad pace. Then the third boy got aboard, and round they all went, much to the delight of themselves and their cheering audience in the doorway.

But even Ben's muscles of steel had their limit of endurance, and after a few circles of the room with the three riders he suddenly stopped and rolled over on his back.

And now an amazing thing happened. Of the three boys suddenly tumbled better skelter from their seats one happened to fall upon the upturned jaws of the bear, and Ben, who for years had juggled rope balls, cord sticks and miniature logs, instantly undertook to give an exhibition with his new implement.

Gathering the badly frightened boy into position, the bear set him whirling. His clothing from his shoe tops to his knees was soon ripped to shreds and his legs torn and bleeding. His scalp was lacerated by the sharp claws until the blood came. His cries rose to shrieks and sank again to moans. But the bear, unmoved, kept up the perfect rhythm of his strokes.

Finally the terrified lookers-on in the doorway, realizing that something had to be done if their leader was not to be twirled to death before their eyes, tore a rail from the fence and with a few pokes in Ben's side induced him to drop the boy, who was then dragged out apparently more dead than alive.

The doctor took seventy-six stitches in the lad's scalp and put rolls of surgical plaster on his shins. So square and true had Ben juggled him that not a scratch was found on his face or on any part of his body between the top of his head and his knees. He eventually came out of the hospital no worse for his ordeal, but I doubt if he ever again undertook to ride a bear.

FEARLESS CHAMPION OF DIGNITY
NOW HEADS MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY

Dean Harry Burns Hutchins of Law School Succeeds Dr. Angell as President at Ann Arbor After Proving Executive Capacity.

AFTER deliberating for a whole year and considering the qualifications of many university presidents and of several men in public life the regents of the University of Michigan have decided that the successor to Dr. James B. Angell as president of the university shall be Dean Harry Burns Hutchins, head of the law department.

No graduate of the University of Michigan ever can confuse Professor Hutchins with any one else, for it was Dean Hutchins who was responsible for that famous slogan which, as interpreted by the students, runs, "Remember the dignity of the department."

The slogan was a great joke for a time, for the students of Dean Hutchins' department of law were not noted formerly for having the character of doves. For a time indeed the dean had to be the dignity of the department all alone.

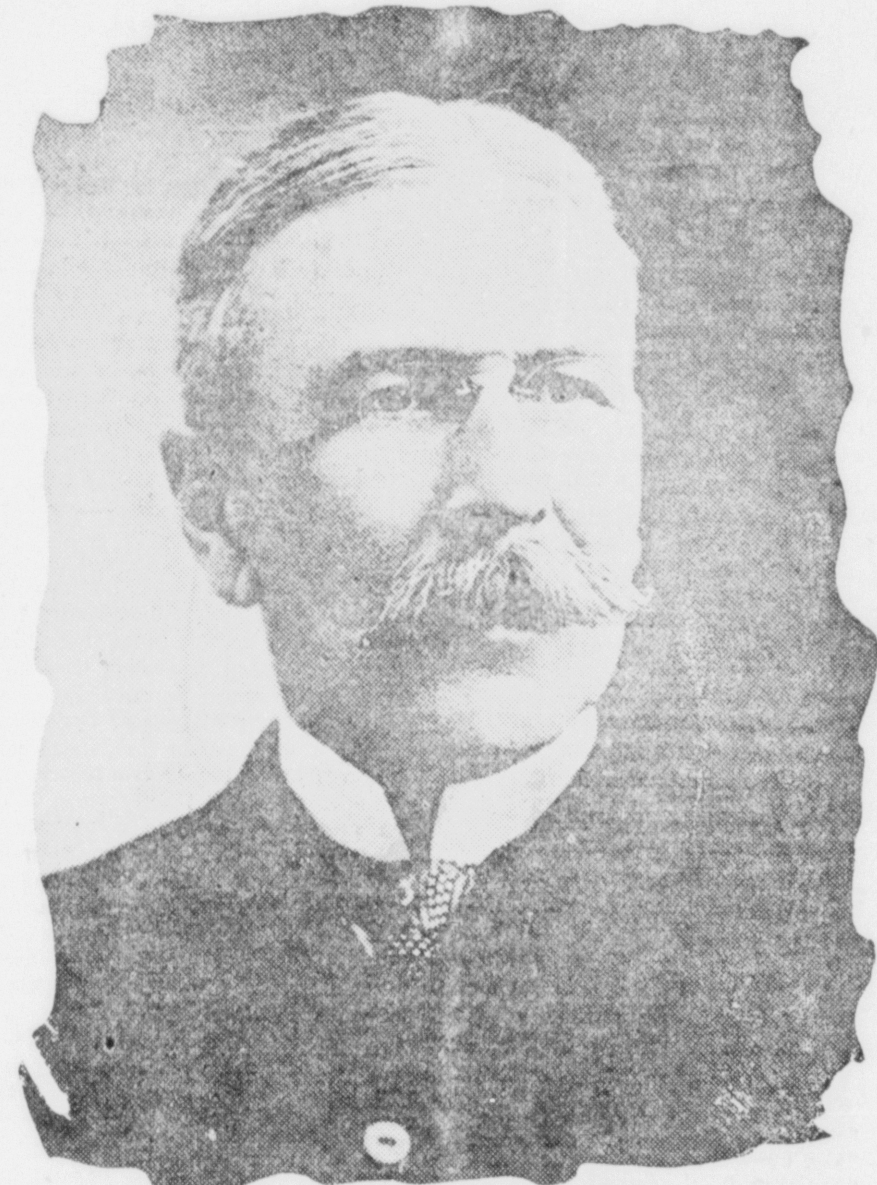

Dean Hutchins clung to that slogan. He was called to Michigan from Cornell in 1895. For five latter years he for commencement week imagined they saw more dignity than ever in Dean Hutchins; that his back, if possible, was straighter than ever in spite of white hair and sixty-two years of energetic living, and he had reason to be proud, they said. He had done the impossible. He had tamed the law students. He was a genius in administration, they declared.

Dr. Hutchins was born in Lisbon, N. H. He received his preparation for college at the New Hampshire Conference seminary, at Tilton, and at Newbury. At nineteen he entered Wesleyan University, Middletown, but on account of bad health could not complete the year. A few months later he took up the study of anatomy, physiology and surgery at the University of Vermont, and then at Dartmouth. His family moved to Michigan, so in the fall of 1867 he entered the State university at Ann Arbor.

He was graduated in 1871 with a degree of bachelor of philosophy and labored under his program of teaching law students the principles of deportment.

That, however, was when the notorious class of Naughty Naught, the "century laws," were wasting Wash-tenaw county. They almost broke the dean's heart, that class. They went down in the annals of the campus as the most undignified class ever graduated. Tradition wasn't the only thing they broke.

Did Dean Hutchins give up? Well, hardly! About four or five years ago the student body realized that Dean Hutchins had at last won his point. The "engineers" and "lits" found themselves pushing and gasping in a strictly "law-less" rush. The shirt tail parade by "laws" became a memory. The capture of locks of hair during hazing became regarded as barbarous, and a gentlemanly though somewhat unexciting struggle around a huge pushball was approved as the best outlet for undergraduate animal spirits.

This year the graduates returning was chosen as commencement speaker, which was the highest honor then conferred by the faculty. The following year he had charge of the public schools of Owosso, Mich. He was recalled to Ann Arbor in 1872 to become an instructor in rhetoric and history. In one year he was advanced to the rank of assistant professor.

He spent three years more in Ann Arbor before he went to Detroit to practice law for eight years in partnership with his father-in-law, Thomas M. Crocker.

In 1884 he was recalled to the university as Jay professor of law. Three years later he went to Cornell, returning to Michigan after eight years to become dean of the department of law. In the absence of President Angell as minister to Turkey in 1897-8 he was acting president of the university, and he again was made acting president last fall when President Angell resigned after a term of service of thirty-seven years.

ENGLAND WARS ON SMOKE.

Deputation From Nineteen Towns Urges Action on Parliament.

Representing nineteen of the foremost towns in Great Britain, a deputation has submitted a memorial to John Burns in which is set forth a series of facts showing up the evils of smoke. Among these are the indirect results of a smoky and foggy atmosphere, such as a temperamental depression finding relief in drinking, betting and other forms of vicious excitement, and wind-down permanently closed against permanent smuts.

Eighty per cent of the population live in this atmosphere of fog and soot. These indirect results are not imaginary scares. A week's fog during a cold spell in Glasgow sent up the death rate from 13.5 to 32.5 a thousand.

Only London and seven large towns have so far given the matter serious consideration. In the years 1903 and 1904 these seven provincial authorities instituted 2,181 prosecutions for causing a smoke nuisance, while the other 102 leading towns instituted 164 between them.

A Pungent Player.

It is expected that American interests will soon be in control of the railways of Guatemala.

"Black Bart." Road Agent.

Charles E. Bolles, known to fame as "Black Bart," was incomparably the most conspicuous character in the history of western stage robbers. From 1875 to 1883 "Black Bart" is known to have committed twenty-seven stage robberies single handed. Northern California stage drivers stood in constant fear of this unique desperado. On various occasions the drivers were able to give a good description of his figure, hair, feet and hands, yet no clew to his actual identity was gained during the eight years of his stage robbing career. He was finally betrayed by a laundry mark on a cuff which had dropped from his wrist when opening a treasure box which he had taken from a Wells Fargo stage in San Joaquin valley. When he was finally captured in San Francisco the detectives were amazed to find the famous "Black Bart" a slight, quiet mannered man of fifty-five, familiar in face to all the San Francisco detectives. He had for years frequented a little restaurant near police headquarters where many of the detectives dined.—W. C. Jenkins in National Magazine.

Got It at Last.

It is told of a distinguished professor of history that, in an address before a woman's club on "Obscure Heroes of the French Revolution," he had reached the point where one of them, nobly resolved to essay the rescue of a friend doomed to the guillotine, sought a parting interview with his sweetheart before making the almost hopeless attempt. The professor had a moving voice and was eloquent. The assembly of women, many of them already near tears, hung breathless upon his words.

"Biddy, biddy," said he pathetically, then coughed slightly and went back "Biddy biddy"—Something was evidently amiss. He tried again.

"Biddy biddy ditty doo." By this time the ladies looked puzzled and the orator despaired. Drawing a long breath and speaking with painful deliberation, he at length conquered the elusive syllables and said: "Did he bid adieu?"—Youth's Companion.

Unconscious Humor.

Mark Twain, as an example of unconscious humor, used to quote a Hartford woman who said one day in the late spring:

"My husband is the dearest fellow. 'Jim,' I said to him this morning, 'are you very hard up just now?' 'I certainly am hard up,' he replied soberly. 'This high cost of living is terrible. I don't know what I'm going to do.' 'Then, Jim,' said I, 'I'll give up all thought of going to the country for July and August this year.' 'But the dear fellow's face changed, and he said:

"Indeed, then, you won't, darling. I thought you wanted to buy a hat with an aigret or some such foolishness. No, no, my darling! Jim can always find the money to let his dear little wife go to the country."—Washington Star.

Looking For "the Crazy Ones."

A woman got off a Darby car at Thirty-fourth street and Woodland avenue the other day, entered the university campus and started toward College hall, walking with brisk determination, yet looking wonderingly about her the while.

In front of the library a university youth met her, and she accosted him quickly.

"Young man," she said, "will you please tell me where they keep the crazy ones?"

"Wh-what?" stammered the college man.

She repeated her question in somewhat different form.

"I want the insane department," she said. "I have a friend who is a nurse there. I thought I'd make her a little visit. Isn't this the Philadelphia hospital?"—Philadelphia Times.

The Professional View.

An English physician of whom many stories are in circulation may not be as unsympathetic as a recent anecdote seems to make him. He is a specialist on all sorts of mental disturbances and the fits, spasms and convulsions which sometimes accompany them. One of his patients, a most excitable person, if suddenly alarmed or distressed, would fall into a curious comatose state from which she could not be roused until the effect of the shock had passed. The physician had been summoned again and again, but it always happened that he was away from home at the time, and before he arrived on the scene of action the patient had recovered. At last one night he was summoned and arrived at the house while the woman was still unconscious. He hurried upstairs and into the room where she was lying on the couch. He looked at her, and an expression of interest overspread his face.

"Now, this," he said in his most cheerful tone—"this is something like!"

Whistler's Ways.

It was Whistler's custom when drowsy to go deliberately to sleep, no matter where or what the circumstances might be. At one dinner party his gentle snore suddenly aroused his neighbor, who nudged him violently with his elbow. "I say, Whistler," he protested excitedly, "you must not sleep here!"

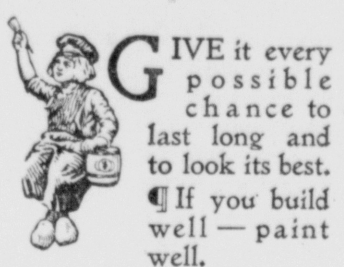

"Leave me alone!" snapped Whistler. "I've said all I wanted to. I've no interest at all in what you and your friends have to say."

One evening he was my guest at dinner at a hotel. Edwin A. Abbey was also there. Right after dinner Whistler went calmly to sleep. On the way to the theater he enjoyed another nap in the cab, and he slumbered peacefully through the greater part of the play. The next morning he blandly asked me: "What did Abbey have to say last night? Anything worth while?"—Century.
